“Autism BootCamp”

Participants will gain a deeper understanding of Autism Spectrum Disorders as well as strategies and techniques useful across settings. These techniques include visual supports, communication systems and social skills. Attendees may break into groups in the afternoon according to specific interests to learn more about specific strategies and techniques.

3/23/07 Greenup County

8:30-4pm EST at Bellefonte Center:
1000 Ashland Dr. Russell, KY 41169

“Social Supports for Individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders”

Research and reports suggest that individuals with higher functioning autism spectrum disorders are at significant risk of being left out of social environments. This session will focus on the social development of individuals with ASD across the lifespan; identify strategies to teach and target social skills and offer practical solutions and resources for designing activities that optimize opportunities for social communication and foster peer interaction. Strategies such as the hidden curriculum and other tools that address social issues in the school, home and community environments will be discussed.
